

ABSTRACT

A biological, DNA, security and medical alert system includes a remote monitoring unit worn by a user. The remote monitoring unit includes biosensors that monitor biorhythms of the user, an audio and video device for communication, a microprocessor monitors data collected by the biosensors to detect anomalies indicative of a medical condition, alerts a central unit, and automatically, manually and or via voice control administers medications stored in the remote unit.